Waveland approves $5.3M bond issue

This has nothing to do whatsoever with the (proposed) marina project. - Tommy Longo Waveland Mayor

BY GEOFF BELCHER News Editor

After a brief, uneventful public hearing Tuesday evening, the Waveland Board of Aldermen voted to approve a resolution of intent to borrow $5.3 million for infrastructure improvements.

The board and Mayor Tommy Longo had been lambasted at a meeting last month by Waveland residents who feared the bond issue would be used to finance a controversial marina project.

Longo had introduced the marina idea at the beginning of his first term in 1999, but the members of that board of aldershot the project men down.Longo stressed in the public hearing Tuesday that the marina was in no way part of the $5,3 million bond issue through the Mississippi Development Bank.

"This has nothing to do with a marina whatsoever," Longo said. "This has to do with approximately $17 million in

The Pass Christian Board of Aldermen held a special workshop Tuesday with CSX Railroad and Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) officials to discuss the closings of several railroad crossings in Pass Christian. All other crossings would be upgraded with lights and crossbars, CSX officials said. All members of the board were Jeff Luthi, CSX property management specialist; Joe McMahon, CSX manager of public safety; and Butch Swales, assistant rails division engineer with MDOT, said that Pass Christian would not have to pay any money for the three-to-five year project.

With the arrival of June, the summer season is

This is the time of year when our visitor population increases. Many of our merchants enjoy seeing an increase of visitors, as it means more business for them.

Summer visitors is nothing new for our area, as I was reading an article this week which appeared in The Echo's June 11, 1892 edition, which was reported as being published as a reprint of an article published a number of years before.

Such mentions as ..."This is one of nature's chosen spots for rest and recreation, and is only 50 miles away from the heat and turmoil of New Orleans. It being the nearest of the coast resorts, families find it a convenient and most desirable place to sojourn through the heated term, and people come by the hundreds to enjoy our fish and oysters and salt water bathing from June until September every year..."

The article went on to talk about many natural advantages of our place, the agricultural interests, pecan and fruits trees, waters seafoods of the Gulf and Bay, and even the prized shell road of eight miles along the Bay, and most important, the shadiest oaks surrounding splendid residences.

As one can see, tourism has always been a very important for our Hancock County's coastal area.

Times have changed in Jackson

Thousands of its viewers onated have grown accustomed to American television broadseeing a very visible black presence in on-air news people on Jackson's

WLBT-TV. That's in sharp contrast to what they would have seen 40 years ago when WLBT, then owned by Lamar Broadcasting subsidiary Life Lamar Insurance Company) was the largest TV station in the state. Under Mississippi its general manager, only white faces ther, its programming was used as an instrument for white supremacy. In a remarkable chain of events begun by a formal challenge filed in 1964 by black minister R. L. T. Smith, with the help of some church activists, WLBT in 1971 became the only TV station in the nation to ever lose its license for racial discrimina-on documents were seen on camera; fur- FCC hearings and court. battles in the WLBT case were produced. The documents provide rich fodder for a studious researcher and writer to convert into an historically necessary book.

And that is what Kay Mills a California-based author of a half-dozen books, including one on Mississippi's own civil rights pioneer Fannie Lou Hamer, has now done for the University Press of Mississippi.

Titled "Changing Channels, the Civil Rights

Case That Transformed Television" its dust jacket contains several endorsements, including one from legendary broadcast journalist Daniel Schorr.

Mills deserves high marks for weaving the paper trail into a coherent, readable story from exhaustive research of documents supplemented by a few selective interviews of persons either directly or peripherally involved. However, as someone who closely watched the unfolding of the WLBT case (and played a small part), I find some glaring omissions of important players, a use of several self-serving sources and a failure to interview some persons with firsthand knowledge who could have substantially strengthened the story.

Unquestionably, Fred Beard, from 1954 until 1965 WLBT's general manager, was the chief culprit in causing Lamar Broadcasting to have its license yanked. All the while as manager, it must be mentioned, Beard blatantly promoted close ties with the powerful segregationist white Citizens Council.

The license challenge began two years after Rev. Smith had been denied the purchase of air time on WLBT when he ran for U.S. Congress in 1962, becoming a Mississippi equivalent of Rosa Parks, 1955 refusal to sit in the back of the bus in Montgomery, AL. Mills well relates from the records how black ambitions were thwarted. But she misses other nuances: that Beard through the medium of the state's largest broadcast outlet, also exercised indoctrination of thinking in the white community. Mills doesn't inform readers that Beard was a prime mover in an inner circle of advisers who pushed the malleable Gov. Ross Barnett in 1962 to wage bitter-end defiance of a federal court decree ordering admission of one Negro student, ex-G.I. James Meredith of Kosciusko, to the University of Mississippi.

Waveland Marina is a bad idea, now or ever

Dear Sir or Madam: The proposal to build a marina in Waveland has reappeared. Four years ago it is an even worse idea. (1) The neighborhood (Beach Blvd. between Coleman Ave. and Terrace Street) would have an undesirable increase in foot and vehicular traffic.

it was a bad idea, and today

(2) Despite the best efforts at control, toxic materials, garbage, and human waste will be spilled or dumped into the marina basin. Such conditions ruin the use of the beach and gulf water for recreational use. Beach and water contamination will spread outside the marina basin with changing winds, tides, and other weather conditions.

(3) The city of Waveland has a crying need to improve its streets. drainage, sewerage, and other basic services. It does not need to be in the business of providing luxury services that will benefit only a small number of its taxpayers.

(4) The proposal would be funded by either a loan or the issuance of bonds. In either case, the cost will be passed on to all Waveland property owners in the form of higher taxes. Don't we already pay enough property tax?

(5) Marinas should be constructed on inland rivers, bayous, and other waterways where they do not destroy recreational areas and are better protected from hurricanes. (6) The building of a marina next Veterans' Monument will greatly detract from its beauty and serenity.

But when the U.S. Army troops had to quell a bloody all-night riot on the University campus that exploded on September 30 (after Meredith arrived guarded by a cordon of federal marshals) Beard found himself finally throttled by his Lamar Broadcasting corporate boss.

The day after the riot (which left two dead and 60 federal marshals wounded), William G. Mounger, the Lamar president, ordered Beard to stop broadcasting any more editorials or opinions on the air. Until then, Mounger had refrained from challenging Beard even though he disagreed with the TV manager's racist leanings.

Mounger then organized a group of leading businessmen and other professionals statewide to draft and publish a declaration denouncing Barnett's course of defiance of court-ordered desegregation and calling for peaceful compliance by the state's citizenry.

The declaration marked a definitive break in the stranglehold of the white Citizens Council on public opinion and also started Beard's downfall from his WLBTs "Probe" investiga- Peabody award.

Most Americans feel we cannot and should not harbor the Cold War specter forever, and this amendment recognizes that, compelling us forward. It helps us better plan for the inevitable restructuring.

For instance, a new report the Congressional Budget Office indicates that four previous base closure rounds have left the U.S. Army with little or no excess to receive troops and equipment returning from growing number in overseas. So, a base closure round targeted at 25 percent of our home bases would severely limit our ability to expand the armed forces and restructure them.

Not only is the current base closure process wrong, the timing of closing bases in wartime is wrong as well. I'm going to work in support of the House's provision when the Senate and House versions of our Department of Defense Authorization Bill are melded into one during the upcoming

House/Senate conference.

I'll also be offering other amendments regarding base closure, which could include another initiative to compel a first shot at overseas installations. Given the close vote, I believe the Senate should reconsider a new version of my amendment, especially considering that four Senators were absent when the vote was called. I also am supporting an initiative that would pro-Germany is reunified. The hibit the Pentagon from issue. Russians aren't going to mothballing bases. Department Quality Environmental -DuPont DeLisle air pollution permits to the MDEQ Permit Board for action at its regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday, June 8 beginning at 9 a.m.

The second permit is to allow for an expansion that would increase production by 16 percent. Emissions would increase an estimated 82 tons per year of particulate matter, 198 tons per year of nitrogen oxide, 38 tons per year of sulfur dioxide and 98 tons per year of carbon monoxide. The Permit Board meets at the Southport Center, MDEQ Central Office, 23280 Highway 80 in West Jackson. Exit 42B off of I-20 onto Ellis Avenue. Go to the second light and turn right. The Southport Center is behind the row of strip shop-

center of the building. According to MDEQ, if (MDEQ) will present two either party is aggrieved by the permit board decision, they can request an evidentiary hearing. The hearing request must be submitted within 30 days of the Permit Board decision.

The Permit Board will then schedule an evidentiary hearing, and following the hearing will render a final decision on the permits. If either party is aggrieved by the Permit Board decision, they may appeal the decision to Chancery Court, MDEQ will also hold a public hearing on June 24 at 7 p.m. at the West Harrison Community Center on Espy Ave, in Long Beach for a number of permits including a request by DuPont to fill 24 acres of wetlands to construct a new hazardous waste landfill, a permit for the plant's solid waste landfill, hazardous waste permits, and a permit for a 40acre open pit clay mine.

More information on those permits can be found by going to the Web site www.deq.state.ms.us and ping on Ellis Avenue. Go to clicking on the DuPont link.

QESTAURANT REVIEWPresenting some of the Finest Restaurants on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

for love Sicily's, in Buffet and ull know, why. amily oriented ily's offers fine easonable prices.

The success of Sicily's is due to their commitment of providing guests the highest quality ingredients, great service, selection and value.

Sicily's Ultimate Italian Buffet has the largest salad bar in Bay St. Louis: The produce is hand selected and brought in fresh every day. Sicily's pizza dough is made fresh daily and is the building block for their award winning gournet pizzas. Only the finest ingredients are selected for Sicily's pizza, such as the best mozzarella cheese, the #1 Italian sausage in the nation and the best quality pepperoni. Sicily's is the only restaurant, that I know of, that will take a request for a pizza that is not on the buffet, and bring it to your table at no extra charge.

Salad and pizza are not the only items available on the buffet, there is surely something to please every member of your family. You can choose from pasta dishes, lasagna, heart healthy baked chicken, various vegetables, rice dishes, soups and gumbot (The gumbo is truly delicious and my personal favorite). Everything is seasoned by hand. Nothing is purchased already prepared. Even the salad dressings are hand made.

Save room for the gourmet coffee and dessert bar. Indulge in phenomenal pizza desserts, such as Mom's apple pie, blueberry, cherry or rocky road. Try the delicious soft serve ice cream with sundae toppings and various cakes and cheesecake.

On Tuesdays, kids 10 & under eat absolutely free with a paying adult: Wednesdays are senior citizen day. Remember everything on Sicily's buffet is available for carryout or order from the a la carte menu.

TIME-PAGE 4B

Hurricane season is officially upon us, and as the past couple of days have reminded us, we on the Mississippi Gulf Coast are quite susceptible to high winds and heavy rain. That's why we've assembled the following information so you and your family won't be ...

Tropical Storm Bill blew through Hancock County last July, and while it wasn't powerful enough to be classified as a full-scale hurricane, it still racked up plenty of damage on area homes.

Hurricane season brings water with wind

THE SEA COAST ECHO

2003 study conducted by Allstate Insurance Company identified more than .750.000 homes in coastal hurricane states that may not have flood insurance. The study looked at current Allstate homeowners insurance customers living in or near Special Flood Hazard Areas to determine if they had also obtained flood coverage for their homes. The study revealed an alarming number of homeowners potentially unprotected from the peril of flood.

The Atlantic hurricane season, which begins June 1, conjures up images of powerful, damaging winds. However, coastal flooding from storm surges and inland flooding from torrential rains can be equally damaging, more deadly and are often the forgotten force behind a hurricane.

During the 2003 Atlantic hurricane season, 22 percent of hurricane-related claim dollars paid to Allstate customers were for

ometimes when a plant gets labeled a noxious weed my first thought is that the most negligent gardeners, even someone like me, can grow it, Since I am on the road constantly, I need tough plants and one of the hardiest varieties that I adore is the Ox Eye daisy.

The Ox Eye seems to be blooming everywhere now mostly in older gardens as sort of a precursor to the Shasta daisies like last

The best of all worlds would be to have the Ox Ey daisy blooming now give way to weeks of Shasta blooms Your neighbors would surely go testy as they figured ushad more than your share of daisies blooming.

After all, daisies are among the most treasured perennial in the landscape.

The lowly Ox Eye originates in Eurasia and is a reliable perennial from zones 3 to 9. It does have a slight wildflower look to it and indeed it can spread aggressively.

Plant your Ox Eve daisies in full sun or where they get at least six hours of morning sun. They do best in fertile, well-drained soil, though I'll be the first to admit I have seen some blooming up a storm in soil better suited for dynamite.

Do yourself a favor and incorporate three to four inches of organic matter and work it in 6 to 8 inches. While tilling, add 2 pounds of a slow-release fertilizer per 100 square feet of planting area. A blend like 12-6-6 or balanced 8-8-8 with minor nutrients would be super.

Space plants 12 to 15 inches apart, planting at the same depth they are growing in the container. Keep the flowers deadheaded for a tidy look and make thinning or managing the spread part of

'Summer Salsa' to benefit new Coastal Dyslexia Center at Coast Episcopal School

Dyslexia: A Gift, not a

Disability "If a child can't learn the way we teach, we will teach they way he learns."

In order to assist several students who were diagnosed with dyslexia last year, Coast Episcopal School implemented the Scottish Rite Dyslexia Program.

This program, which was developed by the Scottish Rite Hospital in Texas, is administered and distributed by the Scottish Rite Masons. The program consists of videotapes of a teacher who slowly and systematically breaks down sounds and symbols of the English language.

The tapes are facilitated by an on-site teacher and utilize a multi-sensory approach. While the Scottish Rite program is offered at a few public schools on the Coast, Coast school to offer this program.

Because of the success of program, Coast Episcopal School has developed the Coastal Dyslexia Center. It is one of the first organizations of its kind on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. A primary mission of the center is to help provide early identification in these exceptionally bright and unique children. The core philosophy is that dyslexic children (and adults) are a gift to society, and under the right circumstances, they enrich our world with their extraordinary analytical and artistic abilities. Their membership ranges from Leonardo Da Vinci to Tom Cruise, Charles Schwab and Albert Einstein.

However, while dyslexia can be a beautiful gift to the individual and society, left undiagnosed, these individuals can quickly misunder-

Studies show that one out of every five children has a form of dyslexia. Dyslexic children generally have above average intelligence and typically demonstrate extraordinary gifts in some aspects of their life, whether they excel at math or show, an incredible aptitude for the arts. Children with dyslexia are not slow or remedial. They simply learn differently. When these children are given the tools to learn in the way their minds work, they generally outshine > their peers. An element of our longterm goal is free testing and diagnostics of any child in the community suspected to have dyslexia. This will require not only funds acquired through fundraising and grants, but also awareness of these gifted children in the community.

The Coastal Dyslexia Center has scheduled a fundraiser, Summer Salsa/A Fiesta for Dyslexia, for Saturday, June 19, 2004. All the proceeds from this event will be directly utilized by the Center. The event will take place on the spacious lawn of Dr. and Mrs. David Roberts' beautiful home on Second Street in Pass Christian.

The Fredy Omar Band, one of the premier Latin performers in the southeast and a frequent opening act for national tours, will entertain our guests as they enjoy traditional south of the border cuisine and beverages. Tickets are $40 per person and are available at Coast Episcopal School or by calling 452-9442 or 255-

Lee-McNelis basketball camp was a huge success

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II Staff Writer

The 9th annual Joye Lee-McNelis basketball Camp held at Hancock High School on Wednesday and Thursday of this past week was one of the most successful in recent memory.

The camp featured instruction from the former Hancock North Central and USM Lady Golden Eagle star Joye Lee-McNelis, as well as, other staff members. The other instructors at the camp were assistant USM coach Brooks Donald, assistant Memphis coach Tyler Williams, assistant Mercer University coach Toby Bush, Hancock High School head coach Pam Slavton, Director of Public Relations for the Sugar Bowl Greg Blackwell, sophomore Lady Eagle player Deondra Carter, former Hancock High School star and current point guard for the Memphis Lady Tigers Devin Necaise, Christy Mathis of Memphis, former Purvis High School star and current junior at Mercer University Shonda Parker, and Hancock High School assistant coach Greta Approximately 80 young basketball players enjoyed the two-day camp which was broken down into two different age groups and several skill levels. There was an age group for girls ages 6-11 years old and a group for girls ages 12-18 vears old. In each age division, there were three different skill levels!

Ainsworth.

In the younger group, the staff focused on the introduction of basketball skills which included defensive positioning, ball handling and shooting form. In the older age division, fundain all areas; however, an added emphasis was placed on offensive skills such as step through/step back moves, shooting form among

Lee-McNelis stated, "The camp is structured among age divisions and skill levels so that the campers can compete against their peers with respect of age and skill level. It has been an outstanding camp and the players have worked very There are two hard. Division I prospects in our camp this year and that proves there are some very talented players down here in South Mississippi. We enjoy coming back home to conduct the camp and are fortunate that Hancock High School is gracious enough to allow us to use their facilities." A former Hancock Lady Hawk, Devin Necaise, who plays for Lee-McNelis returned home as an instructor for the camp. Necaise commented, "I spent two years as a camper here. It is a little different coming back as an instructor now. However, it is exciting because I have the opporunity to be able to inspire some young girls to chase a dream of theirs. I am giving them an opportunity to see that playing collegiate basketball is a realistic goal if you work at it."

Lee-McNelis is the former head coach at the University_ of Memphis where she guided the Lady Tiger program for the last 13 seasons. Her Memphis teams have advanced to post-season play eight times under her tutelage and she compiled a record of 229-156 overall record.

Recently, the Hancock County native was named the new head coach at her alma mater - The University of Southern Mississippi. She played at USM from 1980-84 and also served as an assistant coach from 1986-1991.

The former Hancock mentals were still stressed North Central star spoke about bringinh her annual camp back home to Mississippi, "The major reason for hosting this camp in Hancock County is to give back to the community that gave me so much. I want to let these young ladies know

In 2003, Allstate customers in 14 states and the District of Columbia filed 114,600 claims for damage to their homes resulting from two hurricanes making landfall in the United States. More than $230 million was paid to those customers. Of those claims, 2,741 were flood damage claims from customers with flood insurance totaling more than $51 million. Two percent of Allstate's claim volume accounted for 22 percent of the total dollars paid to Allstate homeowners Insurance customers following hurricanes Claudette and Isabel in 2003," said Jeffrey Deigl, Insurance Allstate Company assistant vice-president. "This is a vivid illustration of why homeowners need to consider flood insurance, and now is the time to make that consideration because a federally mandated 30-day waiting period for purchasing flood insurance could leave you dangerously unprotected if you wait until a hurricane is coming."

A costly tab...

The average flood insurance dollars paid to Allstate customers following hurricanes Isabel and Claudette was $18,727. Deigl says homeowners need to ask themselves if they could afford that expense without flood insurance. "Purchased separately from your homeowners, renters or commercial policies, a flood policy can help complete the insurance protection for your property," Deigl said.

Parent/child art workshop and folk music at LMDC

On Saturday, June 12 visitors can enjoy an art workshop and a musical concert at the Lynn Meadows Discovery Center

Regional artist Joey Rice, who has had one woman exhibits at Delta State University and Loyola University and resides in Ocean Springs, will conduct a parent-child art workshop for children ages 8 and older from 10:30-11:45 AM. Rice will introduce children to using watercolors on joss paper, a delicate Asian textured paper, in the style of artist Dusti Bonge. This workshop is in partnership with the Dusti Bonge Collection and Director Julian Brunt. "Through the joss paper workshop, children will experience a dif-ferent view of art", says Rice as seen through the eyes of Dusti Bonge. They will be arranging different shapes and forms in a very unique design". The workshop is free with $6.00 admission to the Discovery Center and requires pre-registration by calling 897-6039 ext. 13.

At 2:00, Grammy Award Winner David Holt will entertain visitors with music and stories rich in the traditional culture of North Carolina. Holt plays ten acoustic instruments and has released numerous
